Horse Disease and Color Matching Game

Equine Infectious Anemia

Body color ranges from tan, to red, to reddish-brown. Mane and tail are black. Lower legs and tips of ears are black.

Dun

This is the inflammation of the laminae of the foot, which can progress to rotation of the third phalanx (coffin bone). Signs include lameness, throbbing digital pulse, feet hot to the touch, horse lies down more than usual, laminitic stance: front feet out ahead of body and weight shifted toward hind end, horse standing on heels of hoot to relieve the pain. There are different causes for this disease, including bacterial infection, excessive carbohydrate ingestion, concussion of hooves on hard ground, excessive ingestion of lush grass in the spring.

Grulla

Any coat color mixed with white hairs. Colors include black, blue, red, and strawberry.

Strangles

Body color is yellowish or gold. Mane and tail are black or mixed. Horses have a dorsal stripe and can have zebra/transverse stripes, but usually, lower legs and ear tips are black.

Viral disease transmitted by mosquito bite. It can be acute, subacute and chronic. Clinical signs include fever, anemia, weight loss, horse tires easily. Death is possible, but it is possible for horse to live with disease for years. No effective treatment available, and horses are carriers for life. This is a reportable disease. Diagnosis is made by Coggins blood test. If a horse is found positive, testing lab must report to federal authorities. A negative Coggins must accompany every horse being transported within state and out of state.

Chestnut

Positive horses must be euthanized or branded and kept in a screened stall facility, at least 200 yards from all other horses.

Bay

Body color ranges from smokey or mouse colored to dark gray, where each individual hair is mouse-colored. Usually, the lower legs are dark and there is a dorsal stripe.

This word is used to describe any abdominal pain in horses. Clinical signs include swishing tail, looking around at belly, kicking at belly, rolling, sweating, pawing the ground, repeatedly lying down and getting up. There are many causes for this ailment, including impaction, obstruction, twisted gut, parasites, sand in gut, trapped gas, overeating, sudden change in diet or environment, etc. There are clinical cases and surgical cases. Call a veterinarian because this condition is always an emergency.

Laminitis (Founder)

Body color ranges from light copper to reddish-brown. Mane and tail are usually the same color as the body, but may be flaxen (straw yellow or dirty white color).

Buckskin

Body color is yellowish, brownish-red, or gold. Mane, tail, and legs are a variation of body color. The identifying mark is often the dorsal stripe running down the spine. Horses also may have zebra stripes on legs and/or transverse stripes over the withers.

Roan

Also known as distemper, caused by bacterium called Streptococcus equi. Fever as high as 106°F. Signs include mucous discharge from nose, may have discharge from eye, mucus becomes thick, yellow, and purulent. The most obvious clinical sign of this disease is the swelling of lymph nodes under the jaw and throat-latch, giving the impression that the horse is being strangled by the swelling. Lymph nodes may burst or need to be lanced and drained by veterinarian, after which healing begins and signs subside. The affected horse needs to be isolated because this disease is very contagious.
